Dear Patrick:

I wanted to send a note to thank you and your team for creating our web site. It is obvious that your talent, both in business and in creativity, has produced a site much better than I expected for the limited budget we allowed. Further to that, your quick and creative response to our request for the brochures and posters was very much appreciated. We have received compliments on our professional look. I would attribute that to your sincere desire to capture the "feel" we wanted to project in our marketing efforts.

On another note, I am sure you are aware that our technology just won the Innovation of the Year Award. Again I want to thank you and your team for the software you developed and continue to develop for this project. Your innate ability to understand what we actually needed and how to put that down in a logical and well thought out process made the project what it is today.

Please do not hesitate to offer my name to anybody interested in your services, both from web design to software engineering. I would be pleased to recommend your team.

Sincerely,

Michael S. Laurie, P.Eng.
President
